

Zambia along with most developing countries has been a victim of natural disasters, mostly brought about by Climate Change. In some parts of Zambia there have been severe droughts and flooding.

The victims of these disasters are members of the congregations and as such the church has been actively involved in providing humanitarian and emergency response to disaster victims associated with droughts, floods, etc. In the long run it is important to ensure the rebuilding of local infrastructure and capacity to restore damaged infrastructure and lost means and resources.

Disaster response at EFZ looks at immediate relief responses and long term rehabilitation and development of the affected communities.
